

XM Traffid and weater are safer than regular radio. They give updates constantly where if you have to wait for the radio announcer to get to it with all the pugs and commercial it is too late and you are part of the report on XM. Regulations are getting out of hand this country This country is nothing but a big advertisement and as long as "we the people" allow lobbyist corruption to continue it will never end. But only a handful seem to care the others are out suing someone, on drugs or in a waiting room for a psychologist.
